

Postdoctoral Position

We are seeking for an ambitious and highly motivated post-doc to work on autophagy and cancer.

The project is focused on the molecular mechanisms of selective autophagy of the endoplasmic reticulum in cancer cells.

The candidate must hold a PhD. Strong skills in cellular & molecular biology and biochemistry are highly recommended. Knowledge in cancer field and/or autophagy are requested as well as independency in experimental design and project development.

Enthusiasm and collaborative attitude are mandatory.

Applications, including the CV, the names and contact details of two referees and a concise personal motivation letter, should be addressed to p.grumati@tigem.it